

Welcome to the Pleasdontblowit mining facility. The mine currently employs 126 people. We are glad that you mine rescue men have gathered here for assistance. This morning at 8am the outside mine heard the fan stall out and shortly after the fan quit running. We have electricians on site trying to repair the situation. The responsible person assigned a man to take the names of those who came out of the mine and we had 124 men evacuate safely.

The fan is a blowing fan and the intake is in the number 3 entry. The fan cannot be stopped stalled or reversed once it is repaired and running. The mine has a history of bad roof conditions and methane. The section that we believe the men are on uses battery powered haulage equipment. The last tracking position that we received showed these men to still be on the section.

Good Luck and please bring our men to the surface safely
